India

When I think of India
I see in my mind's eye at sunset
The Pink Taj Mahal built in the name of love for a woman.

I think of color and beautiful Saris, even poor women are wonderfully colorful.

I see sacred cows causing traffic jams - free to roam the cities.
Turbans on heads, painted hands
and feet, Gandhi making at his loom,
The smell of golden Curry, Sandalwood, and incense. I see the Bengal Tiger. Exotic-erotic sculpture - The Lovers of Kajeraho. Splendid Temples to the strange Gods - Hindu Gods and animal Gods. And the wonderful stories of Rudyard Kipling.

Diwali

The Festival of Lights
 Hindus believe that the god Vishnu protects the World with his goodness. Krishna & Rama are his 'avatars' and 'shaktis' (meaning energy power). Lakshmi is Vishnu's wife. Yama is the god of death - he reminds us that death is a part of life. Figures of gods & goddesses are called "Murtis" used in Hindu homes for worship.

The demon of evil is Narakasur. This festival is a celebration of Krishna's victory over the demon of evil. Sweets - treats - lights & fireworks. A day of feasting - a day of cleaning - the start of a fresh new year. The triumph of Light over darkness.

A Brief History.

India is one of the richest cultures more than 5000 years old. Full of many smaller cultures and 1500 different languages. 18 recognized languages - school is compulsory to age 14 but only 60 percent attend leaving only about 60 percent of the population able to read and write.

The British ruled India from 1800 to 1947 leaving behind the English language, their legal system - roads, train systems and India's favorite game: cricket.

There has always been religious tension between Muslims and Hindus causing many wars.

Life expectancy is about 63

The Hindu religion introduced the cast system that divides people into classes for life.

Mahatma Gandhi (1869-1948) known as the great pacifist leader of non-violence who achieved India's independence from Great Britain taught the world the power of non-violent protest. He was assassinated in 1948.

Cows according to the Hindus are sacred and free to roam

the Red spot that women put on their forehead is called bindi symbol of shakti female energy.

India is the world's largest democracy. The Cast system locks people for life and dictates who can be priests, merchants, warriors, servants or workers, and who they can marry. Untouchables are the broken people. Laws have been passed to outlaw the cast system without much success. Dr. Bhimrao Ambedkar who was born a Dalit (untouchable) fought to change this and drafted the Indian Constitution that guarantees Dalits justice and equality. Hindus deprived them of education and were forced to do the worst jobs and never to mix with the upper casts. Despite the law to change this, 50 percent live in poverty and ignorance.

Dance, music, story telling and drama originated as religious performances, very present and popular everywhere in India.

Indian Literature is as ancient as Sanskrit. The Vedas are considered the word of God 350-400 C.E.

women and girls are expected to obey and serve men - often considered a burden requiring huge dowries in order to marry them off.

In 1993 many women filled government seats. In 1966 Indira Gandhi was elected one of the world's first female prime ministers.

Boy babies are celebrated and often if a woman finds she is carrying female fetus, she terminates the pregnancy. These attitudes are discouraged but hard to change.

Hindu marriages are arranged by parents according to the star signs or horoscope. Sometimes the girl can refuse but old traditions die hard. There are too many festivals and rituals to list here.

Food: Muslims do not eat pork. Hindus do not eat beef (as cows are sacred). Indians eat with their fingers of the right hand using the thumb as the pusher. Never dirty your fingers beyond the second joint.

Art Crafts Sculpture pottery are 5000 years old. The Ajanta Cave paintings famous for beauty and detail date back to 200 B.C.E painted by monks Indian Textiles are some of the most exquisite cottons & silks in the world. Brocades woven with gold threads tie dying and Block printing are world famous.

Scientific achievements

Nov 1. 05 1pm Delhi arrival

The Taxi man with the placard was waiting since 10 am for my Virgin Atlantic flight. Exhausted from 2 night flights - we are speeding out of Delhi to Anjali's home an hour away in Noida.

In the racing traffic and screaming horns I am amazed to watch the floating sari clad passengers riding <sup>side saddle</sup> on the motorcycle in front of us. Knowing the fate of Isadora Duncan, strangled by the wind catching her silk neck scarf - I wonder why how a woman dressed in a flapping sari can do anything practical. with bare feet in flip flops - Taxis + 3 wheelers packed like sardines could catch her magenta shawl.

NEK CHAND'S MUSE Garden was started in late 50's. Today it attracts 4000 visitors a day & many weddings.

Town wanted to demolish it

Town people circled the grounds to prevent destruction.

Nek Chand is 80 this week. When young & clearing the forest that is govt. land

The pebble walls have no armature

using just cemented pebbles one pebble deep

A wall of Tar barrels cemented together - a wall of old fluorescent tubes.

A wall of ceramic pots stacked

While Le Corbusier was creating an that look like modern sculptures.

Today we were taken behind the scenes up on the top of walls where giant ceramic tiled horses stand like an army of battalion of silent observers.

We pass through a canyon of cement-bag walls 30 feet high on both sides.

Just bags of cement that water is poured into that harden, then the next set of bags are stacked on top & they harden.

There must be 5 to 10 bags high with some rebars to hold them up

The wall looks like a plump standing

In a new part of the forest are hundreds of rebar armatures

Delhi Traffic experiences

on 2 lane roads there are 3 lines of cars. The 3rd lane runs down the divider line with 3 wheel motor tricycles weaving into the tiny gaps and motorcycles with side saddle godivas - shawls + saris flying - scraping their knees against the buses + touching back-view mirrors.

I close my eyes and wonder if I will live to see another day.

After a week of this and 5 days with our hired driver who took us to Chandigarh <sup>and back</sup> I conclude there must be the most skilled dodgers I've ever witnessed, and for we've seen no squashed bicyclists or dead bodies on these sardene-can streets.

Royal Desert Camp Pushkar, Ajmer Rajasthan

4/5 white safari tents on 150 acres rented from the Royal family of Kharpur who owns the Jagat Palace and all this land of 200
colored sand dunes takes place this week in Pushkar
The Tents cost $150 per night per person and sleeps 2. They include bathroom with flush toilet, shower + sink, clean sheets, 2 bed quilts + a little verandah with chairs in front. The price includes 3 meals and as many camel cart rides as you wish that takes you into the center of the trading site and camel fair.
I am falling in love with camel
I sit in the cart right behind
"Rama's" tall ramp and watch his thick strong thighs switch back + forth shifting his long tool & big balls from side to side.
The driver steers him with reins attached to his nose.
Rama is proud, a docile beast. Standing beside him I only reach his hip.

The Camel carts have a thick mattress with enough room for 4 people or more. The driver with his reins + stick steers this enormous beast down a dirt road passing more + more camel carts passing both ways through the dune path to the camel market. Camels are everywhere out on the dunes silhouetted against the sky. Right in the center they are side to side standing, kneeling or sleeping with their long necks stretched straight out.

This 10 day event attracts thousands of herdsmen with their horses, goats and camels. The dunes are thick with grazing animals + gypsy tents.

Along with the thousand of tourists that come from all over the world there are thousands of pilgrims and women dressed like gypsies in the brightest lovely red gold orange + pink saris, head scarves, tiny in high, some with tiny brown babies all come to visit the temple and bath in the sacred lake. The Herders + pilgrims have set up camp everywhere; stoves cooking - lean-tents or just sleeping out. Groups of squating men spitting heat high. we leave the cart + walk into the shop street - like the Kebab full of colorful shops selling every indian craft + colorful amazing silks a small bowed instrument - ingenious toys - I bought 2 reversible silk jackets, 2 for my daughters in law one for Sbie + 1 for me beautiful silks badly sewed but never mind - Very effective elegant + cheap. I got 2 for $20, they cost $50 each if you can find them in America.

To entertain the thousands of tourists as well as the pilgrims there is a giant ferris wheel + on-going fair with a mustash contest. camel pulling contest. milk stripping contest, Turban Tying Contest - drumming and folk dancing.

It is very hot all day + the moment the enormous sun goes down you need your coat + sweaters.

Sally was only able to reserve our Tent for 2 nights but 2 days in this bee hive of people + pilgrims - shopping and color emersion is about all you can stand.

There are 4 giant eating tents that accomodate 400 in this camp. The food is delicious.
I love Dal + Curries

11/3/05
 we have moved to a very pleasant hotel right next to a Hari Krishna center. Their chanting wafts over the fields - tedious and quite annoying but the mountains are peaceful + the hotel boys friendly. As this is sacred land you have a long walk out to the road, or you can go on the back of the hotel motorcycle. no cars at 7:30 AM we are all wrapped in coats & blankets as it is very cold until the sun comes up. Then it is 80 or 90 all day. There is no point in getting out of bed before the sun warms the day - but I am the early riser... and glad of a coat.

we have hired a car to drive us back to Jaipur at 9 AM with some sight seeing along the way. Sally to the airport + I 2 nights at the Phawat Mahal Palace in Jaipur. This is the most Luxurious traveling I've ever done on my own - being picked up + driven to airports - hiring cars for 4 days with drivers skilled at almost-accidents every second - There drivers seem to sleep in their cars while we enjoy showers and service. I will return to the $500 a night Ashram for one night before flying to Pune and again for one night in Delhi before flying back to London.

11/14/05 to my mother's hired car driving us to Jaipur with stops at Temples on the way. Leaving shoes outside makes me very nervous. I only have one nice comfortable pair for the rest of this journey + have 10 pairs of them. Swiped - good leather. thick rubber soles. + my big interest. as you've been walking in 1 day you can't enter in

Nalanda TMT Dream Work

11/19/05 Francis Menezes organized his 20 years old dream group for my slide talk called 3 dimensional problem solving. About 40 people turned up. We had projector + megaphone in a beautiful campus Estate Livingston.

These people have been working with Francis for many years meeting about once a month to work on their dreams. I showed my slides of Life + body mapping and nightmare work with children. I felt it went well - they asked for a workshop so I arranged for them to meet at the University Science Center tomorrow. We expect about 20 will come. They seemed very eager to work with me. One woman asked if she could get help with a persistent troubling dream + she was willing to work solo in front of this group immediately.

Her persistent worrisome dream that she has been working on with Francis she said has never gotten satisfaction.

"I dream I give birth to a perfect baby, It comes out clean no blood or afterbirth - I cut the cord, I lift it up to see if it is perfect and it is but I cannot get satisfaction - no matter how many times I have worked on this dream I feel incomplete. I have worked with Francis for 10 years and this dream still haunts me."

I asked her if she was capable of feeling satisfaction - she said no.

I suggested she could ask the baby what satisfaction would be if she could have it. - no response

"I'm a lost cause" she said
Wow! A lost cause - if you have learned to be a lost cause you will never get satisfaction. That is a great way to deprive yourself of satisfaction you must have learned that very young. whose voice is it that withholds satisfaction - my father - Let me tell you about survival strategies. We learn them in childhood in order to survive. What do you think the benefits of being a lost cause might be?
nothing I can do is good enough

So you might as well be a lost cause - and I suspect if the perfect baby had a penis life might have been different for you.

This was a nice bit of work she understood that she was playing the same trick of dissatisfaction that she learned from her parents
+ it was time to learn satisfaction herself.

We walked around the room telling every one there that she was no longer a lost cause she was satisfied with a perfect girl baby.
